MESSAGE FROM THE COUNTRY DIRECTOR

I am pleased to share World Vision South Sudan's FY21 Impact Report. The year can be described as one like no other. South Sudan's children were significantly affected by the compounded shocks and stresses of the COVID-19 pandemic, the ongoing conflict in different parts of the county, climatic shocks and massive economic recession, among other crises.

South Sudan remains in a dire humanitarian situation, experiencing one of the severest levels of food insecurity. Over 60 percent of its 12 million people, including 1.6 million internally displaced persons, need emergency food assistance.

The fragility of the South Sudan context has meant that World Vision must continue to simultaneously engage in relief, recovery and development programming. This approach allows for long-term engagement with communities, enabling a focus on transformational, integrated, community empowering and multi-sectoral programming while at the same time providing immediate, life-saving interventions.

In FY21 World Vision has assisted 2,120,902 people, including 1,351,750 children and 769,153 adults in South Sudan.

Our 1,200 strong workforce and over 3,000 volunteers braved all challenges to complete a combined US$120 million worth of programming with utmost commitment and efficiency. This report is clear evidence of World Vision's efforts to deepen its commitment to the most vulnerable children, a key imperative of Our Promise. We will continue to align our strategy and programmes through key priority actions and application of the fragile context programming approach.

The report highlights encouraging progress and clear impact in sectors such as Health, WASH, Food Security and Livelihoods, as well as, Food Assistance.

World Vision works closely with South Sudan's humanitarian community, with donors, local partners, faith-based organizations, communities, and families we serve to strengthen our efforts to promote the wellbeing of children.

We appreciate the efforts of these groups working on behalf of the children of South Sudan and hope to continue our fruitful collaborative efforts.

As we embark on our FY22 programming, we renew our commitment to stand together to end hunger; poverty, conflict, and contribute to nation-building in South Sudan.

I am hopeful that peace will prevail in South Sudan, so children can reach their full potential, the future generation is protected and provided with opportunities.

I would like to thank the communities and partners we work with, authorities, our donors and UN agencies who valued our partnership.

Above all, we trust God as we embark on FY22 with a renewed commitment to our promise, "Building brighter futures" for vulnerable children of South Sudan.

Dr. Mesfin Loha

WHERE WE WORK

WorldVision has been partnering with the people and government of South Sudan for over three decades. Our operations cover seven out of the 10 states with direct implementation and programming through partners. We work with over 1,200 staff, over 2,000 government employees and 3,000 volunteers.

Our operations are overseen through three zonal offices in Yambio, Malakal, Kwajok and 21 county level offices with programmes that are multi sector; and integrated, covering the spectrum of life saving and livelihood enhancement.

WorldVision plays key roles in the Humanitarian Architecture and the Cluster System through co-coordinator role in Food Security and Livelihoods Cluster and strategic advisory roles in Health and protection clusters. Further, it is a member of the Steering Committee in the Donor/UN/NGO lead partnership for recovery and resilience (PFR).

FY21 World Vision South Sudan Programming Areas

Central Equatoria Zone:

World Vision South Sudan continues to have a sustained presence in all counties of Central Equatoria State except Terekeka, Juba County. FY2021 saw a significant increase of about 10 projects.

Projects include:

- 17 cash programming projects
- 15 nutrition sites
- Education projects
- Protection projects
- Livelihood and food security projects
- Health projects, including immunisation campaigns, Covid-19 prevention programmes

Greater Upper Nile Zone:

With cattle rustling, sporadic fighting, natural disasters like flooding and fall army worm and a huge dependence on food assistance by half of the population in its 13 counties, Upper Nile State's context is dynamic, fluid, volatile, uncertain and complex. Despite these setbacks and the complexity of the operational areas, World Vision continues to provide services to over 700,000 people in counties of Panyikang, Malakal, Baliet, Fashoda, Manyo, Melut, Renk, Ulang and Nassir, and Khorfulus, Canal in Canal-Pigi (Jonglei). Projects include:

- Food security and livelihood assistance
- Health and nutrition programmes
- Protection activities
- Education in emergencies support
- Shelter materials and non-food items distributed
- Water, sanitation and hygiene services

3.2.3 Western Equatoria Zone:

World Vision's programming in Western Equatoria State is in seven counties, mainly Yambio, Nzara, Ezo, Tambura, Nagero, Ibba & Maridi. The ongoing conflict in Tambura displaced thousands of people in the area and affected many humanitarian operations. Maridi County continue to have limited projects compared to other counties.

Significant projects in this area are:

- Food security and livelihoods
- Nutrition
- Child protection
- Education
- Food assistance
- Health services

3.2.4 Greater Bahr El Ghazal Zone:

In the Greater Bahr el Ghazal Zone, World Vision's interventions cover two states, namely Warrap and Northern Bahr el Ghazal. The zone has also responded to the counties classified as IPC 5 and 4 to avert the imminent famine. Operations in Warrap State, where the zonal office is situated, cover all the six counties namely Twic, Gogrial West, Gogrial East, Tonj North, Tonj South and Tonj East while Northern Bahr el Ghazal include Aweil East and Aweil North counties.

The projects include:

- Food security and livelihood support
- Nutrition programmes
- Protection assistance
- Education support
- Food assistance
- Water, sanitation and hygiene services
- Health services
