The Triple Bottom Line of FMNR

FMNR & sustainable development

Rob Francis
Project Manager - FMNR
World Vision Australia
Sustainable Development

• Meeting the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs (Our Common Future; Brundtland Report 1987)

Or, in every day terms …

• Getting organised for long-term prosperity in harmony with the environment
Components of Sustainable Development

- Social
  - Bearable
  - Sustainable
  - Viable

- Economic
  - Equitable

- Environment
Sustainable Development and FMNR

• FMNR has 24 beneficial impacts
  • 11 social
  • 7 environmental
  • 6 economic

Social organisation ➔ environmental care & repair ➔ economic growth
Key social benefits

• Creates a positive & hopeful community
• Builds collaboration, networks and partnerships
• Fosters tree ownership and land tenure security for farmers
• Increases education and training
• Increases empowerment for women
• Increases food security, health and resilience
Key environmental benefits

• Restores tree cover
• Reduces erosion
• Enriches soils
• Increases water availability
• Controls wind and temperatures
• Increases biodiversity
• Climate change adaptation and mitigation
Key economic benefits

• Increases incomes through:
  – improved crop yields
  – sale of tree products
  – improved livestock production
• Increases household assets
• Increases consumables/decreases expenditures
• Offers new income opportunities via carbon credit revenues
From a desperate, dysfunctional community living in a moonscape and totally reliant on aid – to a fully functional community and agricultural powerhouse
FMNR is Sustainable Development

• “Meeting the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs” (Our Common Future; Brundtland Report 1987)

• “We want a future for our children. We want to restore the forest, to protect our soil and water source. Our dream is to make this forest better than it is now.” (Afonso Beremau, farmer – Aileu District, Timor-Leste)
Thank you

rob.francis@worldvision.com.au