CENTRAL MALI EMERGENCY RESPONSE

Situation report # 2

May 2018

HUMANITARIAN SITUATION OVERVIEW: May 2018: A comment made per a candidate for the next presidential elections rises concerns “only the transparency of the presidential election scheduled for July 29, 2018 will prevent a post-election crisis. Mali needs a free, transparent and democratic election to avoid a bloodshed”. As Ramadan approaches, the threat of attack on state public buildings, hotels, bars and restaurants remains high even during the month of Ramadan in capital Bamako and the central region. Tensions between the two ethnic groups remain high in Koro, Djenne, and Macina districts in Mopti region. The risk of confrontation between the two remains present in Koro and Macina where the “Dozos” locally called traditional hunters from one of the ethnic groups begin to establish check points in some axes. The Dozos have been known to carry out irregular checks of the vehicles.

From 22th to 23th May, 2018 Government officials held a two day’s reconciliation meeting, where four ministers attended (Minister of Solidarity, Justice, Security Minister, Minister of Humanitarian Action), local MP’s, local Mayors, Prefer, village chiefs of the two ethnic groups and representatives of the civil society and NGO’s including World Vision. At the end of the meeting a decision was made to create military bases in Diougani, Dinagourou, and a police station in Diankabou this month, organize patrols to disarm, and hunt down armed groups, apply the law to put an end to impunity in the affected areas, and support the return of the displaced persons in order for then to prepare land for this year farming. Moreover, the high officials recommended that other meetings be initiated for the reconciliation and a durable peace in the area.
